

THE ENERGY SUMMIT

2016

November 15-16

USSRC

Davidson Center, Huntsville, AL

Energy is big business. It's also small business and a government mission. Energy Summit 2016 brings participants from all three together for two days under one roof to foster business and mission success.

Confirmed Speakers Include:

Mr. Patrick O'Neill, Chief Technology Officer,
U.S. Army Materiel Command

Governor John Sununu, New Hampshire (Ret.)

Mr. Mark Correll, Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Environment, Safety and Infrastructure

Alabama Lt. Governor Kay Ivey

Register at:

energyhuntsvillesummit.com

For Exhibitor information:

exhibitors@energyhuntsvillesummit.com

Energy Summit 2016

Session Descriptions

Energy Entrepreneurs

Start-up Companies, both young and mature, from a variety of energy technologies, will share their success stories and their visions for where the industry is going. This session is rich in experience and will provide an exciting set of case studies and advice for commercial energy success.

Partnering With the Government

With new mandates and policies, the government is aggressively moving forward with energy conservation, efficiency, and renewables. This session brings together some of the major government leaders in this transition, to show industry how it can help the government achieve its goals.

Building Bridges Among Small Business, Large Business and the Federal Government

Large businesses form a solid bridge among small businesses and government agencies. Large businesses have small business quotas they must meet, and small businesses benefit from the mentoring and market access large businesses provide. This session specifically addresses how to build those bridges.

Register at:

energyhuntsvillesummit.com

For Exhibitor information:

exhibitors@energyhuntsvillesummit.com